NEW REJECTIONS

3. There are no new rejections.

ANSWERS TO APPLICANT'S ARGUMENTS

4. Applicant's arguments of 3/19/08 have been carefully considered but are deemed unpersuasive.

Applicant has argued that the gel reducing additive of Camilleri is reacted with the polyurethane and thus the proposed combination, adding the gel reducing additive of Camilleri to Bonk, can not be made without impermissible hindsight. Applicant alleges that the only way Bonk and Camilleri can be combined is replace the polyurethane of Bonk with the polyurethane of Camilleri which has already been reacted with the gel reducing additive and therefore the combined teachings would lack a gel reducing additive.

Even if applicant's allegations are correct. Applicant's claims make no distinction between reacted gel reducing additive and non-reacted gel reducing additive. Thus, such a combination would still read on applicant's claims because the gel reducing additive is present in the mixture at some point. Furthermore, the gel reducing additive only reacts with the unreacted isocyanate groups present (column 3, lines 24-40). If 5 wt.% gel reducing additive is used and there are only 2 wt.% unreacted isocyanate group to react with than the composition contains 3 wt.% gel reducing additive and reads on applicant's claims as written. It is to be noted that applicant's gel reducing additives work in much the same way in that gel formation is prevented because the gel reducing additive will react with unreacted polyurethane functional groups thus preventing gel formation (see paragraphs [0023], [0048] – [0051] of the instant specification).

There is nothing in the disclosure of Bonk or Camilleri which would preclude on of ordinary skill in the art from simply adding 5 wt.% gel reducing additive to the composition of Bonk. The camilleri reference provides ample motivation in that the gel reducing additive lowers gel content (column 3, lines 24-68).

In response to applicant's argument that the examiner's conclusion of obviousness is based upon improper hindsight reasoning, it must be recognized that any judgment on obviousness is in a sense necessarily a reconstruction based upon hindsight reasoning. But so long as it takes into account only knowledge which was within the level of ordinary skill at the time the claimed invention was made, and does not include knowledge gleaned only from the applicant's disclosure, such a reconstruction is proper. See In re McLaughlin, 443 F.2d 1392, 170 USPQ 209 (CCPA 1971).

Conclusion

5. This is an RCE of applicant's earlier Application No. 10/652,746. All claims are drawn to the same invention claimed in the earlier application and could have been finally rejected on the grounds and art of record in the next Office action if they had been entered in the earlier application. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL even though it is a first action in this case. See MPEP § 706.07(b). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no, however, event will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
